Q: XCode 4.3 beta 1 problem with 64 bit My XCode (3.2) build just failed from the new 4.3 beta 1 and I have no idea what is causing it. Here's the build output: Target foo-debug[foo.app/foo] of project foo (1 targets) Running: /usr/bin/clang -arch x86_64 -isysroot /Developer/SDKs/MacOSX10.5.sdk -arch x86_64 -stdlib=libc++ -L/Developer/SDKs/MacOSX10.5.sdk/usr/lib -F/Developer/SDKs/MacOSX10.5.sdk/System/Library/Frameworks -filelist /Users/alumax/foo/foo-build/foo.build/foo.build/foo-debug.build/foo-debug-hosts/Inputs/foo.build/foo-debug-hosts -stdlib=libc++ -o /Users/alumax/foo/foo-build/foo.build/foo.build/foo-debug.build/foo-debug-hosts/Outputs/foo.build/foo ld: warning: in.obj.map, file is not of required size 0x00000010 ld: warning: in.obj.map, file is not of required size 0x00000010 ld: library not found for -lz clang: error: linker command failed with exit code 1 (use -v to see invocation) At first it also didn't recognize libz.dylib so I made sure the symlink was there. However, I wasn't sure if this was necessary, but it helped. I cannot reproduce this error even on the Simulator. Has anyone else seen this problem? A: Ok, it seems there was a bug in the new version of the compiler. I tried it on the old 6.0.1 compiler and it worked fine. The Rule of Seven The Rule of Seven (, also known as The Sevens) is a 1942 French drama film directed by André Hugon and starring Raymond Pellegrin, Itale Théret and Madeleine Lebeau. ( 5 out of 5) Nice Precision by Leon H from Lakewood, CO on September 22, 2014 I picked up this gun at a local gun store to try out as my first gun. It is really a nice package if it comes with the hollow point primers. The only problem I found was the location of the safety is hard to place a finger on and it can be tough to see when carrying a jacket. Other than that I found this to be a perfect beginner's gun. Great accuracy out of the box, it is quite smooth to shoot and holds zero after a full magazine is removed. If you are a beginner gun buyer and it comes with the hollow point primers, you will be happy. If not then you may want to consider a different brand gun. I will update this review once I have a few hundred rounds through it.Q: iOS use of tag property of UITableViewCell for custom cell I want to use the tag property of UITableViewCell to keep an array of items for each section. I don't want to use reusable cells. If I use [myTableView registerNib:[UINib nibWithNibName:@"CustomCell" bundle:[NSBundle mainBundle]] forCellReuseIdentifier:@"CustomCell"]; and perform a [myTableView dequeueReusableCellWithIdentifier:@"CustomCell"]; the table view cell that is returned is sometimes not of type CustomCell, but of type UITableViewCell. What am I doing wrong? A: [myTableView registerNib:[UINib nibWithNibName:@"CustomCell" bundle:[NSBundle mainBundle]] forCellReuseIdentifier:@"CustomCell"]; This line of code registers the CustomCell.xib with the TableView. It does not inflate the UINib object from the XIB - it creates a new object. You need to create the UINib object from the XIB. The documentation says to do this: [myTableView registerNib:[UINib nibWithNibName:@"CustomCell" bundle:[NSBundle mainBundle]] forCellReuseIdentifier:@"CustomCell"]; [myTableView dequeueRe
