As each twists and turns in this beautifully illustrated story, the plot for their lives crumbles, and they must decide who they will become – or if they will even still exist in the life that exists beyond the clock at midnight. What's new:

& Courts (MultiPath) As a GM, I use this.

I use it on specific maps (Inns & Courts) that I find to be dull and lack of topographical, I find that with mapping you can really bring out characteristics that players couldn't get on their own. For instance I can make a town scene complete with shops, hay for the horses, cider, beggars, and street performers. Since I also have it printed I can give out multiple maps out in the wild, or with Inns and Courts in different parts of an location. 27 Sep 2014 22:17:59
GMTRobirounXSuperWizard11 Hi,

I have a question concerning the dungeons in the "INNS & COURTS".

Since the 'flooded' and 'construct' maps are not intended for dungeons (they are plain maps, just set a dungeon on them) I have been asked if it is possible to make maps of dungeons with these two "German" maps.

I would like to know if this is possible to make it and how?

Greetings,

SuperWizard11 (I think the username could be different?)

> Thanks for the reply Rob, I'm glad to see you're still doing mapping. I hope you get a chance to respond
